

Im a preteen and I love my mother. My story is for every daughter who loves her mother. I didnt really know anything about breast cancer until mom got it. I thought that everybody died from it. But my mom didnt die, although there were times that I thought I would. When Mom was in the hospital for tests and the mastectomy, things werent the same at home without her, even though Dad tried. When Mom went through the chemotherapy, she was sometimes so sick I was sure she was dying until I got to understand what was happening to her body. For a while, we changed roles, and I took care of her. I was scared, and lonely, and afraid to ask questions. But, Mom understood that I desperately needed information, and she talked to me honestly and gently. I love her for that She showed me her scar. So now things are pretty much back to normal, but now I understand about breast cancer. So should every girl around my age. Please Dont Go is about me and Mom and breast cancer.
