

A bird pooped in my daughters mouth yesterday. Do we need to worry about anything? Sure, kids may say and do the darndest things, but concerned parents definitely take it to a whole other level. While these moms and dads certainly mean well, its hard for anyone (even a pediatrician) not to dissolve into laughter when they hear weird and unexpected questions like: Betty ate cheese from a mousetrap from which the mouse also ate. Is that anything to worry about? Should my eight-year-old wear boxers or briefs? I dropped off my sons urine sample in a Tupperware container. Can you please give it back when youre done? From concerns about pickle-shaped poos to the risks of sitting on Santas lap, Dr. Henry Anderson, a pediatrician in private practice, has heard it all€”and now you can, too.
